

Kristen K I N G W E L L

PROJECT DIRECTOR • FACILITATOR

Kristen Kingwell's background is rich in cultural sensitivity, leadership development, customer service management and marketing. Her broad base of experience and considerable array of satisfied clients range from Fortune 500 corporations to small and medium sized business organizations, state government agencies and corrections.

A graduate of the University of Arizona, Kristen has a Bachelors Degree in Anthropology and a Masters of Science, with post-graduate work in Urban Planning and Architecture. Her commitment to community concerns started early, when she served in the Peace Corps in Honduras.

Since joining The Pacific Institute in 1983, Kristen has been a consultant, addressing leadership concerns, and acted as an advisor to a wide variety of industries. During her tenure with the Institute, she has been a corporate consultant involved in marketing, corporate needs assessment, quality initiatives, strategic vision building, measurement and evaluation including a vast array of top management development processes.

Over the last two decades, Kristen's corporate expertise is evidenced by such clients as Harley-Davidson, Inc., Northwest Airlines, Nordstrom, K-Mart Canada, Case International Harvester, Hollister, Inc. and Vacation International. Community and education-based clients include Maui Economic Opportunity, Hale Makua, Kula Hospital, Kamehameha Schools Bishop Estate and Rural Community Leadership Program. Committed to improving the community around her, Kristen recently facilitated the creation of a new corrections curriculum from The Pacific Institute, specific to Island prison populations.

Kristen, her husband, Jim – a popular island artist – and their two children make their home on the island of Maui.
